

Hi! My name is Zara Guevara and this is my eighth year as the Spanish teacher at the Berry Patch.

I am originally from Lima, Peru and have worked as a Language Teacher and Cultural Liaison for more than 12 years at both private and public schools throughout the Twin Cities.

Having a bilingual family makes me highly appreciative of the benefit of starting a child's education in languages at a young age. My goal is to provide the children with a foundation for learning Spanish in a fun and positive way, because as you know children at this age learn mostly through play. My curriculum includes plenty of movement, music, and fun activities that encourage the active participation from the children.

I am thrilled to have the opportunity to share the beautiful Spanish language and diverse Latino culture with your children again this year!

Warmly,

Zara Guevara, Berry Patch Spanish Specialist
